Give them a trial.

Both branches of the Legislature have passed resolutions expressive of their appreciation of the great moral worth and ability of the late Chancellor Rodgers.

by all East Tennessee. Resolutions by the Board of Trustees of the East Hon. Samuel R. Rodgers:

recent death of the Hon. S. R. Rodgers, who was, for many years, a useful and deligent member of ried out, it would appear to me to be still the only, this Board, as a loss to the cause of education, as or at any rate the most effectual means, as far as a well as to other public interests; and we hereby bear our testimony to his virtues as a citizen, and express | ing minor and unsettled matters of reconstruction, ar regret for his memory as a Trustee. Mr. Editor :- In looking over your last paper notice that the "Tennessee Colonial and Immigration Company," incorporated by an act of the General Assembly, passed May 24, 1866, has been erganized, and officers elected, amongst them one Joseph Sandel appears as General Immigration Agent. Revival of Religion.

Mr. Laster :- A few weeks ago our town was visited with a gracious outpouring of the Spirit of laws and policy. That high mission and obligation God, in which all the churches of the place shared eannot be accomplished until all which slavery has so graciously, believers were built up, backsliders relaimed and sinners converted. The meeting was commenced by the Southern Methodists in the Cumberland Church, though it anty for popular rights, I should feel myself out of ministers of the place entered heartily into it, and were received kindly by those who had charge of the meeting, we felt that the meeting belonged to no particular denomination, but it was God's meeting, and that God was doing his own work, [this ms the secret of its success.] It was truly glorious in its result and Zion has been built up.

We learn from the paster of the Church South that 30 had united with his Church, the Baptist releived some 13, Cumberlands 16, Presbyterians will receive about 12, and up to last Sunday 29 had cined the M. E. Church, and this number will be increased some six or eight, as others purpose uniting with that Church.

Among those who have joined the M. E. Church are several heads of families and some of the best itizens of the place.

Never since our reorganization was the prospect of the old Church in this place brighter, the now has some 88 members in Cleveland, and a host of warm and strong friends. She has the largest Sunday School in the place, 130 scholars and teachers.

This indeed is wonderful, when we look at the circumstances connected with its organization, and some of them very timid, the tongue of the slanderer was let loose against it, but paridoxical as it may be, it seems to draw new life and vigor from all this. I would not forget our new Church enterprise. We have bought and paid for a fine lot, 105 feet square, in the most desirable part of town, the trustees have decided building a fine church, one that will be an ornament to the town, and an honor to Methodism. It will be of Gothic style, 44 feet wide, 70 feet long.

WASHINGTON, July 11. SIR :- I have the honor to tender you herewith my resignation to the office of Post Master General to take effect upon your notifying me of its acceptance, thus withdrawing from your Cabinet. It is proper to say that I do so chiefly because of the fact that both are gentlemen of fine standing, and difference of opinion between us in regard to the connecte proposed amendment of the Constitution, which I families. approve, and the movement for a Convention to be held at Philadelphia on the 11th proximo, to which I am opposed. My confidence in the Union-Republican party is such that I believe upon its per manent control of the Government depends, in a large measure, the peace and happiness of the counholding an equivocal attitude in respect to it. In other words, that a failure to reply may and set like a charm on the liver and intestines.— be interpreted as a disapproval not only of the call but of each and all of the principles announced

This is a position in which I am unwilling to be placed, when I approve of many of the principles set forth in the call, and yet do not approve of the call itself. I will briefly state my reasons, first promising that I do not recognize the very respect-able gentlemen who have made this call, as the acknowledged organs of the great Union party of the country. Since the terrific struggle from which the country has now emerged, we have had a National Union party that has exhibited more devotion, made greater sacrifices, and manifested more unselfish pawith its organization intact and its organs known; and as that party, by its faith, its doctrines and its exertions, has, in the face of the prophecies of half Tennessee University, occasioned by the death of the New and the Old World, saved the Government and the republican institutions of our common country from the demoralization, and indeed from Resolved, That in acknowledging the wisdom and goodness of God in His providence towards men, we sincerely deplore, in submission to His will, the States, through which only can a particle of the theory of State rights ever be maintained and carparty can do it, of finally adjusting all the remainconsistently with the requirements of the theory mentioned. This party is the same to-day as it was in the days of its trial; the same party now as when them in their bereavement, and that a copy of these | but a few short months ago, it elected Lincoln and Johnson and the majority of the present Congress; and as I acted with it then, for paramount reasons my sense of duty demands that I remain and act with it now. The pith and marrow of the present call, I should say, tends towrad a convention to form a party for sustaining not the Government in its entirety, as has been the mission of the Union party, but a department of the Government; and here I must take liberty of adding that I can hardly conceive of any sadder spectacle under the crisis of present circumstances, than that of the tried Union party of this country becoming dislocated and broken up by diversions, or that of one branch of the Government of the country taking an issolated position upon questions of deed and common interest, and placing itself in hostile conflict with co-ordinate departments. For these and other reasons which might be mentioned, I cannot join in the call for the Convention

I have said that many of the principles stated in the call, are in my view, unobjectionable. I will not stop to criticise those which are objectionable, but content myself with stating that the call fails to Late Cash'r U. B'k, Tenn. Late Cash'r B'k of Tens take any notice of one of the great issues now before the American people. ment. Being myself carnestly and decidedly in favor of the adoption of the amendment by the States, openly oppose that measure, or would smother it by avoiding its discussion. I must also add, that no man is more desirious than I am, to attain the enthe restoration of the American Union, with its Tin and Sheet-Iron Wares, Stoves, practical workings in more perfect harmony and concert than ever, and the surety, as far as mortal affairs can be made sure, of endless perpetuity in the

The blessings to flow from such a Union are countless and mestimable. But such a Union, consistent within itself, maintained by the universal consent of all classes and sections, and laughing to scorn both the assaults of focs internal or external, and the ravages of time and change, will only be obtained by sternly retracting every departure from or compromise with the supreme and general idea of the American fundamental law-the Constitution. That general idea consists, in brief, of the political liberty and equality of mankind under the law. Such, and such only, can be the Union, the nationality that will put in form the magnificent and lofty dreams of the American continental mind, and fulfill in future the highest efforts of the present and the past. It is not the vague delusion that the rights of the State read to the state of the State read to the state read to the state of the State read to the state r the rights of the States need doctoring. The American theory culminates properly in the sacredness of the rights of individuals-of each single individual. That after all is what Washington carved out with his sword, and Jefferson, filtering it through his subtle and free mind, drew up and put on record with the pen.

It is well known that in the political and legal his-tory of the United States, the only departures on compromises of the kind alluded have been those in the interests of slavery and of its manifold incidents. I do not, of course, propose to go over the thousand times told tale of the past sixty years, today. Slavery as a confessed legality, is, as we all know, no more, but some of the most important of its incidents or compromises still remain, blots and incongruities upon the law. What equitable reason can be given why these incidents also should not be the Baltimore Convention—to extirpate slavery includes the removal of all the hate and anti-popular excrescences, engrafted by that institution for its own selfish aggrandizement upon our free national

From the Memphis Appeal. Melancholy Affair.

DUEL BETWEEN HENDERSON TAYLOR, ESQ. AND CAPTAIN ALONZO GREENLAW.

One of the most melancholy affairs it has ever been our duty to record, transpired in Mississippi a few miles below the city yesterday afternoon, resulting in the death of a well-known citizen at the hands of another. As nearly as we can ascertain the facts are as follows: Two or three days since Mr. Henderson Taylor, who is a brother of a well-known fellow-citizen, Dr. Arthur K. Taylor) and Capt. Alonzo Greenlaw, (son of Mr. W. B. Greenlaw, met on the street. After the short time it has been in operation. In its be- a few words Capt. Greenlaw struck Mr. Taylor in ginning it seems to have had but few friends, and the face with his open hand. The matter went no farther at that time, but next day (Monday, we believe), Capt. Greenlaw received a note from Mr Taylor, which resulted in the parties, accompanied by friends, repairing to a point in Mississippi, six r seven miles below the city.

At that point a duel was fought between the two gentlemen yesterday afternoon. We learn that Col. Milton Haynes acted as second to Mr. Taylor, and Mr. Gift for Capt. Greenlaw. The distance was ten paces, the weapons navy repeaters. According to our informant, the principals were to fire at any time after the words, "Are you ready-fire!" and were to continue discharging their weapons until one of the two fell. The weapons were discharged almost simultaneously, and Mr. Taylor fell mortally wounded in the bowels at the first fire. His funeral will take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon from Dr. A. K. Taylor's residence, No. 77 Adams street. We know nothing authentic of the, origon of the difficulty which has resulted so tragically, and whose and features are rendered doubly sad by the connected with two of our oldest and most esteemed

MEDICINES.

Notice to the Public, In the year 1846, the writer embarked in the Drug Business in the city of Philadelphia, and while thus engaged, made several experiments in regard to the most desirable mode of preparing Fluid Extracts. My efforts being successful—the articles being approved and used by the Medical Faculty-I was desirous of placing them before the public, but hesitated for some time before concluding to resort to newspaper advertising, knowing the prejudices that existed in the minds of many against using advertised Medicines or Nostrons, but through the advice of friends and those who had used them this objection was overcome. After 18 years' exertions, commencing in a small way, the popularity of my articles has extended to all parts of the United States, and widely throughout Toreign countries and this in the face of much opposition. Every means has been resorted to by unprincipled dealers since their merit and success have been know-such as advertising larger bottles at less price, censuring all other preparations, and even copying my advertisements-but I am happy to state that out of the many who have resorted to this, none have been successful.

spectable dealers, believing, after so many years' exertions, that the Druggists will discountenance such proceedings, and that the reputation of my articles may not be damaged by the use of inferior or spurious ones. Knowing that many may read this article who are unacquain ted with me, I append a few remarks from those of my native city, and whose names are known to all parts of the world :

"Being personally acquainted with Mr. H. T. Helmbold, affords me pleasure in stating I have been most favorably in
